At Farrington Road last night a detective, Mr. Melville, arrested Francisco Pulti, an Italian, well known as a dangerous An-When taken into custody he had a bomb in his possession. He was a great friend of Boudin, the Anarchist who was fatally injured some time since by the premature explosion of a bomb that he vas carrying to Greenwich Park. After Boudin's death Pulti vanished from his t Clerkenwell. The police watched his by seeing him emerge therefrom. He carried a suspicious-looking parcel and tarted off on a quick pace,

When he reached Farrington road the six men who were shadowing him sprang upon him. He was taken to the Bowstreet Police Station. The parcel he had been carrying was found to contain an iron bomb seven inches long and five wide with an iron screw knob at one end. Later Pulti's lodgings were searched and there were found bottles containing sulphuric acid and liquid potash. A number of letters and anarchistic literature were also seized. It transpires the police were also seized. It transpires the police received warning two weeks ago that an explosion would be shortly attempted in England. The authorities regard the capture as a most important one.

BUFFALO (N. Y.) April 15.—The work of searching the ruins of the works of the American Glucose Company for bodies was begun today and when the workmen quit work tonight the remains of four persons had been found.

The morgue was crowded all day with weeping Polish women or relatives of the men burned. They made a loud outcry when the remains were sent up and the more demonstrative threw themselves upon the charred remains. The officers had to use force to get them away from the remains.—Work will be begun on the ruins at daybreak tomorrow morning. The names cannot be definitely ascertained as yet.

During the trial several communi cations came to Miss Pollard and to her lawyers from managers of the-atrical and opera companies offering high salaries if she would appear in almost any capacity under their auspices. Acting under the advice of her lawyers she has paid no attention, to any of these communications. Since the verdict was rendered yesterday afternoon the theatrical managers have redoubled their importunities and several telegrams have come to Miss Pollard offering her astonishing sums to go on the stage at once. Her friends to give the names of the the decline to give the names of the the-atrical managers or to discuss the of-fers, saying that no attention will be paid to any of them.

be further from her intentions. It is absurd. All she asks for now is rest and quiet."

Judge Wilson's defense of the rights of woman to an equal place with man in the professions, was so appreciated by many of the Washington ladies that a party of them sent to him a magnificent bunch of La France roses, which adorned his parlor today. They were accompanied by a note, stating that they were intended as an expression of appreciation for his championship of the cause of woman in the professions. One of the signers was Mrs. Dan Waugh, wife of the Indiana Congressman; another was Miss Louise Lowell, the stenographer, who wrote Col. Breckinridge's love letters, while he was at the capital, and another was Miss Mary Desha, sister of Col. Breckinridge's late wife. The tribute of Miss Desha is significant of the feeling of the relation of the late Mrs. Breckinridge toward the colonel.

MRS. BROWN INTERVIEWED.

MRS. BROWN INTERVIEWED. MRS. BROWN INTERVIEWED.

CINCINNATI, April 15.—"You may say, positively, that Miss Pollard will not go on the stage," said Mrs. McClellan Brown. While Miss Pollard was a pupil, Mrs. Brown was, with her husband, in charge of the Wesleyan Woman's College. She has just returned from Washington, where she testified in the Breckinridge-Pollard case. She said Miss Pollard had theatrical offers of from $300 to $600 per week. She was tempted only by lectestified in the Breckinridge-Pollard case. She said Miss Pollard had theatrical offers of from $300 to $500 per week. She was tempted only by letture-bureau offers, but would not accept them, because they all wished her to give the story of her life, and that she will not do. She 'has a young brother in Washington, a reporter, and it is her wish to live modestly with her brother and write, and her offers in this line have been as good, accordingly, as the other ones. "I would tell you just what line of writing, but I am not at liberty to do so. She will carry out her own life ambition—the ambition which lay so close to her young heart at the time she first met Breckinridge."

"The Washington women have been quietly holding many indignation meetings. The notorlous conduct of Congressmen and public men at Washington is a national disgrace, and the women are now thoroughly awakened to the disgrace, and are as thoroughly determined to bring about a better order of things. It is an open secret in Washington that there are women, beautiful, brilliant and fascinating, whose relations with Congressmen and other public men high in the councils of the nation, are either perfectly understood or suspected, who are met at every turn at the most fashionable functions, often in the receiving line, or, elggantly dressed, as usual, presiding in the tearoom, or acting as assistant hostess. Society knows all this, but so powerful has been the influence of the names back of them that no one has the courage to drop the women and rebuke the men.

"As to Miss Pollard's money to carry on the trial," concluded Mrs. Brown, "there is no doubt that Mrs. Luke Blackburn obtained it from the society women of Washington. I am only Miss Pollard's friend, and I am a friend to every poor girl who is led astray. It is high time for the women of the country to rise up and demand an women of Washington. I am only Miss Pollard's friend, and I am a friend to every poor girl who is led astray. It is high time for the women of the country to rise up and demand an equal standard of virtue for both men and women, and to punish a lapse from that standard adike in both."

Hardly had the verdict been rendered when a meeting of prominent Washington women was called. Representatives of several female organizations met and, after an interesting conference, adopted resolutions calling upon Congress to consider the qualifications of Representative Breckinridge for membership in that body. Some of the organizations persented were the Woman's Suffrage Association and the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Mrs. Sarah la Fetra of the latter organization and Mrs. Ellen S. Murphy, the widow of the late Gen. Murphy, who is a practicing lawyer and is prominent in the movement for the advancement of women, were among the leading spectators of the meeting. The resolutions adopted were as follows:

To the House of Representatives: We, representative women of Washington, alming toward the establishment of a higher code of morals and against the atrocious double standard which has cursed society so long, declare that we do not believe masculinity to be a license for uncleanliness, but, holding that same standard for women which men demand, an equally high one shall be required of manhood; therefore,

Resolved, that we must have chastity for chastity, under one rule of rights, bearing as rigidly in its application upon one sex as upon the other. From this standpoint we ask Congress to consider the case of W. C. P. Breckinridge, regarding his conduct so unbecoming a legislator; be it, further

Resolved, that we, daughters, wives and mothers of the commonwealth, express a belief that the types of the highest manhood are to be found in Congress; therefore we ask in fullest confidence that the House of Representatives shall join in the sentiment justly held by us and take some definite action to insure the high character of our country's administration and help the future national councils to present a clean and unchallenged body of legislators.

This was the last of a series of meet-sent a clean and unchallenged body of legislators.

This was the last of a series of meetings prominent women have been holding since Good Friday, and which crystallized in the form of an organization cafled the Woman's Protective League. The object of the league will be to combat enforcement of that text uttered on the witness-stand by Col. Breckin-ridge, that social sins injure a man and destroy a woman. The league will endeavor to secure equal rights for both deavor to secure equal rights for both enceavor to secure equal rights for both sexes, and to aid women who have been wronged. It is, of course, an outgrowth of the Pollard-Breckinridge trial. The ladies have invited Judge Jere Wilson to become the general counsel of the league, but the attorney has not yet responded to the invitation. These meetings have been carried on very quietly, as the ladies were anxious to keep their organization a second to keep their organization a secret until their plans were perfected. The resolutions given out have been sent to the House Committee on Judiclary. The women say it is not right that Col. Breckinridge retain his seat in Congress while Miss Pollard is oc-tracised, as she will be, from society. One of the most interesting stories connected with the suit hangs upon the testimony of Miss Louise Lowell, the typewritist. It has been asserted that her notebook, which played so important a part in the case, was full of entries, which might be used to blackmail Congressmen. Miss Lowell, however, declares that Congressmen Breek-eyer, declares that Congressmen Breek-eyer. mail Congressmen. Miss Lowell, however declares that Congressman Breckinridge was the only one who ever called upon her to write love letters, and the circumstances were so unusual that they made an impression upon her memory. Thinking the matter to ever during the trial, she concluded it was her duty to bring the matter to the knowledge of Miss Pollard's dawyers. This she did, and Messrs, Wilson and Carlisie had interviews with Miss Lowell, before they were able to persuade her to come forward in the case.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The struggle over the adoption of the new quorum-counting rule, decided upon by the Democratic caucus last Friday will be the feature of the com week in the House. The details the rule have not yet been formulated by the Democratic members of the Committee on Rules, composed of Speaker Crisp and Messrs. Outhwaite and Catchings, but it will probably be ready to submit to the full committee when it meets tomorrow morning. Inasmuch as about one-third are violently opposed to any quorum-count ing rule it will be impossible for the Democrats, alone should the Repub-licans decline to vote, and the Democratic opposition sustain their opinions to the extent of declining ot vote to make a quorum, to make such a make one of the greatest speeches of his life.

Owing to the death of Senator Vance the House will probably adjourn immediately tomorrow and the fight over the new rules will be postponed until Tuesday. It is probable that but little time will be allowed for debate, and the chances are that when the House adjourns Tuesday evening the quorum-counting rule will have been adopted and filibustering of the kind which has characterized the proceedings of the House for the past three years will be a thing of the past. As soon as the new order of things has been inaugurated in the House consideration of the appropriation bills will be resumed and will consume the remainder of the week.

of the appropriation bills will be resumed and will consume the remainder of the week.

The Senate will adjourn soon after the hour of meeting tomorrow out of respect for the memory of Senator Vance. With the exception of the Chinese treaty, which is to be considered on Tuesday, and the routine morning business of each day, the remainder of the week promises nothing but a continuation of the tariff debate. There is little doubt that the Senate will accept the agreement reached between Senators Harris and Aldrich, providing that general debate on the tariff shall not be interrupted by roll-calls or other business, and shall continue each day from 1 to 5 o'clock. This will probably preclude all parliamentary contests and pave the way for a dozen or so tariff speeches.

Senator McLaurin will speak on Wednesday, and, later in the week, Senators Turple and Palmer, and possibly other Democratic Senators will speak, On the Republican side, Senators Dolph, Morrill, Perkins, Higgins, Gallinger, Hoar, Cullom, Cameron and Washburn will probably address the Senator Quay will continue his speech, the delivery of which, it is understood, will consume several days' time.

CANAL BONDS.

New Provisions of the Bill for Construction

WASHINGTON, April 15.-Senator Morgan, chairman of the Senate Com-mittee on Foreign Affairs, has reported favorably a bill introduced as a committee substitute for the Nicaragua Canal Bill heretofore introduced by him. The bill differs in several respects from the original measure. It contemplates full co-operation on the part of the United States in the work of carrying on the construction. All stocks, bonds and bond-obligations and of carrying on the constant of the canceled to satisfy and enable the company are to be canceled to satisfy and enable the company to take care of its stock and bond obligations.

An issue of $1,000,000 non-assessable stock at par is to be issued. The Secretary of the Treasury is to control the retirement of obligations and the sale of stock. The bill originally introduced provides for the immediate issuance of only $1,000,000 in bonds, while this bill increases this $2,000,000. The Secretary of the Treasury is to issue $4,500,000 bonds, guaranteed by the United States. The bill strikes out the provision for government directors to be stockholders in the company and also eliminates the discretionary powers conferred on the visiting engineers in the original bill.

The infuriated citizens warned the Sheriff they were determined and blood would flow before the prisoner would be surrendered and an attempt at rescue would be useless, as dynamite bombs were under the jail and the prisoner would be blown to atoms.

The militia arrived, but, after a parley, the Sheriff decided to do nothing and the troops were returned. Soon after the mob made a raid on the jail and the building was overturned. A noose was put about the negro's neck and he was dragged to a tree about one hundred yards distant. A dozen willing hands grasped the rope and the negro was swung into the air. As his body rose above the mob, the air was rent with the shouts of the men and women who had assembed to witness the lynching. As soon as the work was finished the mob dispersed and quiet was restored. was restored.

OMAHA, April 15.—Gen. Kelly and his troops spent a beautiful Sabbath in the enjoyment of more luxury than they have known since they left home haste that indicated the zest and relish of cold water.

After breakfast began a reception which lasted well into the evening. Fully 20,000 people visited the camp and mingled with the soldiers. Kelly's wonderful organization was never better shown. The discipline of the army is as perfect as of the well-drilled regulars. Much of this is due to the personnel of the troops, who are mainly intelligent mechanics with a few professional men thrown in. During the afternoon a public meeting was held. Gen. Kelly and a number of local tabor leaders made speeches. In his address Gen. Kelly said he could not understand why the militia had been called out. His intentions were peaceable and his army well-behaved. It was made up of law-abiding and would-be self-supporting citizens of the United States. They had no intention of making trouble for any one. When they got to Washington they will argue the necessity of taking care of the unemployed.

Gov. Jackson's action in calling out the militia has been criticized by the citizens rather harshly. Gov. Jackson justifies his action by saying that he received many telegrams calling for protection and had finally concluded the troops would be necessary to preserve order. Speculation as to how the unemployed would get away from Council Bluffs was heard, but at midnight nothing had been settled. It was then understood that the Burlington would furnish a train. Superintendent Duggan, who has charge of the division of the road, said that he himself was especially averse to carrying the men.

Many recruits joined the army here, one new company being formed, Co. B. Contributions of provisions and cash were also liberal. One collection taken at the close of Kelly's speech amounted to $105.95.

The money market has not yet attained the ease expected. This is largely due to the necessary repayments to the Bank of England to the latter's taking money off the outside market in connection with the realization of Baring securities. SANTA CRUZ, April 15.—The great conflagration of last night and this morning reduced to ashes twenty-four buildings in the heart of this city, and caused a loss of $300,000, which is only partially covered by insurance. The block reduced to ashes is bounded by Pacific avenue, Cooper and Front street, and contained some of the finest buildings in the city, which were occupied by lawyers, bankers and mer-chants. The burnt district is across the street from the Pacific Ocean

House.
The fire was of incendiary origin, and was first discovered at 10:40 o'clock on Saturday night, when an alarm was rung in, but, to the dismay of the fire rung in, but, to the dismay of the firemen, they could not obtain a supply of water from the hydrants, as the city mains had broken on Saturday afternoon and the water had been shut off at the reservoir, three miles from town. Private hydrants owned by the Hihn Company, on Front street, were soon tapped, but the force was not sufficient to do any work, and it was not until 12 o'clock that the city's mains were once more opened. The not until 12 o'clock that the city's mains were once more opened. The water supply was then sufficient, but as Santa Cruz has not a fire-engine to force the water through the hose, the streams were weak and ineffective. The firemen worked bravely, however, and succeeded in saving the wooden buildings on the east side of Cooper street, settlement the County Courthouse.

The fire started in the rear of Henry Rice's one-story frame building at the corner of Cooper and Front streets, but when the first man arrived at the Rice's one-story frame building at the corner of Cooper and Front streets, but when the first man arrived at the rear of the building he detected that coaloil had been used, as the flames leaped furiously into the air and soon the whole house was a mass of flames. A northwest wind was blowing, and this helped to madden the flames, which had by this time fastened hold of George Staffler's building, and were slowly eating their way toward Pacific avenue. The buildings burned with great rapidity, and flames from the wooden buildings on Cooper street threw a shower of sparks on the scorched dome of the County Courthouse, a two-story brick structure, and this building was soon on fire, and in a short time had hold of the roof and was burning downwards.

Within twenty feet of the Courthouse is the two-story Ely building and the Odd Fellows' Hall, both wooden structures, and the fire company, assisted by a bucket brigade, turned their attention to these buildings, which would certainly have been consumed otherwise. While the Courthouse was threatening at any moment to set fire to other buildings by its showers of sparks, the flames were leaping across the front to the wooden buildings wased for hotel purposes, and in less than half an hour, these four buildings was threatened at every moment to be in the path of the fire. The heathens worked hard to save their town, but the wind fanned the flames into their quarters, and, the buildings being of very inflammable matter, they caught and burned like tinder. The Chinamen saved some of their effects, but nearly all of their belongings were consumed by the flames.

On Pacific avenue the flames were leaping from one building to another,

On Pacific avenue the flames were On Pacific avenue the flames were leaping from one building to another, and Mayor Jeter, fearing that the whole business part of the town would be reduced to ashes, telegraphed to San Jose for assistance. Chief Dwyer of the fire department of San Jose, wired back that he would send a steamer and a hose cart on to Santa Cruz's assistance, and they made the trip in one hour and forty minutes, a distance of seventy miles. Watsonville sent a steamer, and it was largely due to this fact that the fire did not spread overmore territory.

After the burning of Chinatown, the flames having consumed three brick buildings on Pacific avenue, attacked buildings on three-story building owned by After the burning of Chinatown, the fiames having consumed three brick buildings on Pacific avenue, attacked the fine three-story building owned by A. P. Hotaling, and in an hour this structure, which extended from Second street to Pacific avenue, was a mass of flames. The three-story building adjoining and the C. B. Pease building were all ablaze when the relief engines arrived, and at this point the San Jose department checked the flames. While the fire was raging at its highest, one of the great three-story brick walls fell in, causing a panic among the people on the streets, who barely escaped without being injured. The flames, which leaped high into the air from the building occupied by the City Bank caused the Daliy Sentinel office to smoke, and it was with great difficulty that the flames could be checked. Plate glass windows in the stores on the other side of Pacific avenue were cracked, and tenants began to move out, and their goods were damaged to a great extent by water.

At 4:30 o'clock this morning the fire was under control and the Santa Cruz people breathed more easily. The burnt district today presents a picture of devastation and the smouldering ruins are being watched by guards to prevent any other outbreak of the flames. The county officials made good use of time when the Courthouse cupola was burning and carried all of their books and documents and assessment rolls to places of safety. The vaults of the City Bank and People's Bank stood the flames and were uninjured. One vault contained $50,000 in gold. A STARTLING STORY. Mrs. Sanders Says the Professor Murdered

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—The Examiner has a special from Reedley, Fresno county, saying: There were bloodstains on the hands of Prof. Sanders when here the said of the sai stains on the hands of Prof. Sanders when he returned home on the night that William Wootton disappeared, and there was a big bondire burning in his door-yard all night. It has already been told that Sanders was strangely excited that night and could not sleep. These things are not rumors. They are statements made by Mrs. Sanders, wife of the man who is now strongly suspected of the murder of "Uncle Billy" Wootton, the rich rancher of Squaw Valley.

Mrs. Sanders made these statements to Charles Rohloff only a few days after Wootton's disappearance, and in the presence of two reputable witnesses, and she

A farewell Reception tensored in the San Francisco.

Associated Press Isased-wire Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—The League of the Cross gave Bishop Montgomery a farewell reception this afternoon at St. Joseph's Hall. An appropriate programme of vocal and instrumental music and speeches fitting the occasion was rendered. Several oadet companics attended in full uniform.

Bishop Montgomery delivered an eloquent address to the boys on their past and future. Father Yorke bade the bishop godspeed on behalf of the League of the Cross and after a farewell chorus the affair was brought to an end. The bishop expects to leave for Southern California in a few days.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

NEW WHATCOM (Wash.,) April 15.—C. W. Waldron, ex-president of the Bank of Fairhaven and the Whatcom County Bank, was arrested at Fairhaven this evening, on a complaint sworn to by the deputy county treasurer, charging him with having received deposits at the Whatcom County Bank in the sum of $5000 after he knew the bank to be in failing circumstances. He furnished bonds in the sum of $30,000 for his appearance next Wednesday.

FRANK STONE DISMISSED.

Another Case of the People's Home Savings Bank Case.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—The dismissal of Frank M. Stone, as attorney of the People's Home Savings Bank, is the latest phase of the troubles of that unfortunate financial institution. This action was taken by the directors yesterday, and is said to have been the immediate consequence of the attacks upon the McDonalds by Stone, who seemed to expect such a culmination of the differences, for he is alleged to have drawn his salary for 1894 in advance yesterday morning.

The directors of the bank have under consideration the bringing of disbarment proceedings against Stone if he does not disgorge. Richard McDonald, Jr., now appears to be the controlling influence in the bank's affairs.

A SAND STORM

The City on the Peninsula Visited by a

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—A wind and sandstorm of unusual severity swept over the city today. The Merchants' Exchange reports that at 9 o'clock this morning the wind was blowing fifty miles an hour at the Golden Gate, and increased to seventy miles at 6 o'clock this evening. The storm came from the northwest. Incoming vessels report a terrible storm. The steamer Corona, from San Diego, had her cabin and several staterooms flooded when crossing the bar, and water poured into the engine-room several times. There were no accidents reported in the harbor, but vessels took precautions and had extra lines stretched. At 8 o'clock the storm had subsided.

Midwinter Fair Managers Threatened With Arrest by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty-Corbett

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—The fight announced to take place in Boone's arena at the Midwinter Fair next Saturday evening, between Col. Boone's African iton, "Parnell," and a grizzly bear recently captured in the mountains near Reno, Nev., has stirred up serious treuble between the Rockety.

grizzly bear recently captured in the mountains near Reno, Nev., has stirred up serious trouble between the Society for the Prevention of Crueity to Animals and the Executive Committe of the exposition.

The society today announced that the fight cannot come off and that, if it is necessary, warrants will be sworn out for the arrest of the Executive Committee, not stepping at Director General de Young, in otder to prevent the contest. A letter to this effect has been sent to the Executive Committee, it is proposed to arrest every one of the 1500 spectators expected to be present, the Mayor having promised a sufficient number of policemen to do the work. The Executive Committee is resticent about the affair, although a member said today, it is understood, that no more than a mere test of strength is expected between the animals and he could not see any objection in that.

Meantime, however, preparations for the struggle continue, and there is reason to believe the beasts will come together. The huge cage in the arena is being hooped about several times with additional bands of steel to make it positively secure against the strain it is bound to undergo. Nearly all of the seats are said to have been sold at prices ranging from $10 to $20 each, and tickets will probably be at a premium when the fight begins.

Col. Boone smiles grimly when told of any new move to prevent the fight.

said more than these things. She said:
"If you want to find what is left of William Wootton! you must rake over the ashes of that fire." To this she added that, if she were ever missing, they would know that her husband had murdered her, and that, if her body could not be found, it would be because her husband had burned it on the same spot that was the alleged funeral pyre of the missing William Wootton. To several persons Mrs. Sanders told the story of her husband's strange excitement when he came home that day at midnight.

Sheriff Scott went to Los Angeles on Friday to see if the mythical Knausch had a bank account there, or had drawn a check for $25,000 on one of the banks, as Sanders says he did, in order to pay William Wootton for his ranch—the same ranch now in possession of Prof. Sanders. Before Scott went south he held a lengthy consultation with Mr. Nell, of the Visalia lothers who have been investigating the case. At this consultation the advisability of arresting Sanders at once was canvassed. Sheriff Scott was for making the arrest then and there, but the Odd Fellows advised against it. Finally, when softly well and the story of her husband's for the most day or two, on the charge of murder.

OS ANGELES THEATER—Doris. URBANK THEATER—A Noble Rogue

Much of the pleasure of the week of arnival was marred by the gangs of pafers and rowdies, who infested the valks along Spring street, particuarly in front of the cigar stands. It is unfortunate that some people ot learn that liberty is not license The free-for-all street masquerade Saturday night last was a fitting wind-up to the carnival, but the fun was taken out of it by the flour-throwing cency enough to draw the line between cood-natured hilarity and rowdyism.

Los Angeles are making the best of the sunny days of spring by enjoying a flesta of such splendor and gayety that it will doubtless have a national reputation, and live in memory with a force strong enough to excite the holding of another flesta next year. The reports describe the city as being brilliant with banners and pageantry, and the people as being animated with the true carnival spirit. The first part of the report is doubtless true, but the latter will have to be taken with some grains of allowance. To decorate a city and arrange a parade needs nothing but money and taste, and every city of importance in tamerica can furnish those things in abundance. To enjoy the festival, however, with the true froite, lightness of heart and readiness of song and laughter requires something that the American hasn't got. Our French, German, Italian and Spanish fellow-citizens can give us lessons in these things every time. We in Callfornia are learning rapidly, however, and will soon be able to enjoy life as much as any people in the world. The flower fete at Santa Barbara and the flesta at Los Angeles are the beginnings of a new form of culture for us; the culture which results from the cultivation of fine faculties too long unused by our people. Byron says that Venice was once the "dear spot of all festivity, the revel of the earth, the masque of Italy." Callfornia may hold, in regard to the United States, a similar place in the future. The flesta in Los Angeles, therefore, means something more than a mere frolic. It is full of education for the people of that city, and sets an example which San Jose might follow to advantage.

The New Church.

The new church (Swedenborgian) The new church (Swedenborgian) held its usual service yesterday at 3 p.m. Dr. Samuel Worcester preached from the text, "He calleth His own sheep by name and leadeth them out." Our Lord is the divine shepherd of the whole human race, ever endeavoring to lead men into the divine fold. The "thieves and robbers who climb up some other way" are men who trust not in the Lord who is the only door, but trust in themselves and in their own merit.

Believed to Be Insanc.

Gustav Kogler, a German, residing at No. 618 Banning street, was taken to the Receiving Hospital at 6:30 o'clock last evening, for medical treatment, at the request of his relatives, who believed him to be insane. Kogler, who had been drinking pretty hard of late, evinced a disposition to be murderous yesterday, and made a savage attack upon his young brother with an axe, but was disarmed. Later on, however, he became very violent again, and the police were called upon to restrain him. Believed to Be Insane.

Dr. Campbell's Sermon on "The Office of Faith."

Great Truths Embodied in Very Few Words.

"Gossin" Discussed by Rev. Mr. Dve-Rev. Dr. Conger of Pasadena at the Church of the Unity-Other Church Services.

"The Office of Faith" was the subject of Rev. J. W. Campbell's sermon at the First Methodist Church yesterlay. The text was from Hezekiah i,4, "The just shall live by his faith." The speaker called attention to what great truths can be embodied in few words. A profound interest centers in a subject of this character. We stand at the head of all that is valuable in the gospel when we begin with the doctrine of faith. Like the mountain stream this spring of truth feeds all Christian history. It came to the prophet as a solution of many difficult problems, and was the starting point of a new stage in the spiritual life of Faith casts a ray of brightness across the dreary way of the Talmud. It started in Augustine and Luther and thousands of lesser believ-ers on a fresh career of victory. When the doctrine of faith was promulgated the doctrine of faith was promulgated a great step forward was taken in the world of Christian ethics. Because of its moral effects and a believing world this doctrine has grown throughout the past ages. Faith becomes the guide and to restrain. It is also a vital force infusing itself through the whole life-blood of our spiritual experiences. Take from us our faith and the world would be submerged amid whole life-blood of our spiritual experiences. Take from us our faith and the world would be submerged amid the high tide of this world's troubles as Holland would be destroyed without her dikes. Faith enters as the great equalizer of life's experience and says to trouble, "Thus far thou shall go and no further." With the exercise of this vital and spiritual force you are as safe as if you had the Rocky Mountains about you to turn back the sea from destroying you.

The speaker then gave an illustration of the arterial system and declared that faith is a central force which controls and combines all human action.

As the subject was of considerable length Dr. Campbell was unable to finish it at the morning service, but did so in the evening.

CENTRAL M. E. CHURCH. The subject of the sermon preached yesterday morning at the Central Meth-odist Episcopal Church by Rev. F. M. yesterday morning at the Central Methodist Episcopal Church 'by Rev. F. M. Larkin was, "The Religious Sabbath."
The text was from Exodus xx, $: "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." He said the civil law is a rule of conduct laid down by the government, and which a just man will not, and others must not disobey; and, while this is the land of the free, yet it is often necessary to impress upon a large number of the foreign element that it is also a land of law, and that these laws must be obeyed in order that all may enjoy the blessings of freedom. And so the moral law is binding on the whole human race, and this commandment is just as necessary to the welfare of the race as any of the rest. It is as necessary today as it was when it was given. Christ enforced the observance of the Sabbath which Christ condemned was the Sabbath of the Pharisees. They made its observance ridiculous; for instance they prohibited one from walking on the grass as that would be a kind of threshing, or feeding grain to the fowls lest some of it should sprout ing on the grass as that would be a kind of threshing, or feeding grain to the fowls lest some of it should sprout and grow, and they would be guilty of sowing grain. This ridiculous ob-servance of the Sabbath was what Christ assailed, and if this was de-stroying the Sabbath then scraping the barnacles off a ship is destroying the

hip. But in these modern days there is a tendency for too much laxity, too much of a tendency to make it a day for recreation, instead of a day of rest and worship as it was intended by the

SIMPSON TABERNACLE.

Rev. C. C. Lasby, D.D., of Lincoln, Neb., the eloquent preacher and eminent lecturer, more than met the expectations of the audience which assembled in Simpson Tabernacle to hear nim Sunday morning.

In opening the speaker paid a glowing tribute to the bright skies and sweet flowers of this favored land. He chose for his text St. John xi,35, "Jesus wept." He said that to Christ no place was so dear as the fair and lovely Bethany, which nestled among the green hills of Judea. Here lived Mary, Martha and Lazarus, and to this loved spot the Savior often came for rest from the weary cares and labors among the multitude. This visit, of which we speak today, was one of sorrow. Martha met Jesus as he approached the home and said, "Master, if thou hadst been here our brother had not died." Lazarus, the loved brother, was dead and already had lain three days in the tomb, and the weeping sisters were disconsolate. Jesus asked, "Where have ye laid him?" and when presented at the tomb said roll away the stone. Jesus wept, sympathizing with the tears and sorrow of humanity, and in a loud voice cried out, "Lazarus, come forth," and the dead arose.

Sorrow comes by death to the palace sorrow of humanity, and in a loud voice cried out, "Lazarus, come forth," and the dead arose.

Sorrow comes by death to the palace of the rich as well as to the cottage of the poor, and the wall of lamentation and sorrow is heard on all hands and in every clime. Is there no help? Yes, relief has been placed on one mighty to save. Jesus does sympathize with us in our sorrow. Grief bore Him down in Gethsemane and broke his heart on Calvary. All heaven sympathizes with our sorrows. The poet has said, "Go bury thy sorrow! bury it deep from sight;" but I say go tell it to Jesus, He alone can heed the sorrow that bends down the race. He can lift us up and inspire us with hope of immortality and eternal life.

In the evening Dr. Lasby again occupied the pulpit.

PEOPLE'S CHURCH.

PEOPLE'S CHURCH. Rev. J. H. Phillips preached yester-day morning, in the People's Church, Blanchard-Fitzgerald Hall, to an in-terested audience. He took for his text Philippians iv, 19: "But my God shall supply all your need, according to His riches in glory, by Christ Jesus."

He said Jesus is the expression of God's highest idea, the perfect man, and Christ, the principal, or God in Him, the higher, or spiritual, idea. The first want is to know what is to become of us, not in the sense of what is to come after death, but something of the future. The speaker said that he did not believe that there is a single demand of our souls but will be answered. The eye demands beauty, and we have the flowers: the taste makes demand of our souls but will be answered. The eye demands beauty, and we have the flowers; the taste makes its demand, and we have delicious fruits and viands; the ear harmony, and we have the sweet song of bird and brook.

What is God? So the human heart is crying; Who is God? We must know, and that we ask is proof that we shall know. We look to nature and at once feel that we cannot get all our answer even from her grandeur and majesty. God shall be the supply in Christ Jesus of all sweet things, all perfect things, This Christ is not limited, and in proportion as we can see this truth and recognize the divine life and love, out of this abundant fullness of God comes the supply in the Lord Jesus, He declared that if this little church would realize this great truth and go forth strong in the faith, it would be a power and would succeed.

UNITY CHURCH.

Rev. Dr. Conger, senior pastor of the Pasadens Universalist Church, preached in Unity Church in the morning on "What Is Religion for, and What Is the Church Doing with It?" He found his answer in the words of Jesus, "I am come that they may have life, and have it in abundance," John life, and have it in abundance," John x, 10.

He said Jesus seemed to think His mission was to conserve the life God had given to men, and increase its abundance. He had His creed, "God My Father, man My brother and a gospel of gladness and great joy to all people." He went out preaching this gospel, and healing, helping, comforting, inspiring and giving his abundant life to the world.

He did not say men would be saved forting, inspiring and giving his abundant life to the world.

He did not say men would be saved by the creed, but by the life. He did not ask men to believe in His creed, or a creed about Him which men might but to believe in Him and His write, but to believe in Him and His abundant life. The church had de-parted from this faith in life, and had put the emphasis on doctrines, and when believing a creed had become essential to salvation, then persecutions and inquisitions were justified, to crush out heresy and advance the true faith. These were the dark and bloody and inquisitions were justified, to crush out heresy and advance the true faith. These were the dark and bloody days in church history, and they are answerable for much of the infidelity into which men were driven.

The creeds have been crowded to the front until people who wanted to help in the great humanities have gone into other organizations and left the church, as if it had little for the great needs of the hour—except to get followers to their respective theological opinions. The speaker said: "I am tired of this everlasting contention of the sects and this trying to snatch a man from hell with the grappling irons of creed. And I will vault my denominational fence and yours, that I may clasp hands on the broad highway, with a brother, to help another in the struggle.

Better days are coming men are for Better days are coming, men are forgetting their creeds. The high and hideous denominational fences are giv-ing place to the boundary lines and the simple curbing which set off the delightful lawns which all are enjoying. We all need religious homes; howeve poor, they are better than to be home less. But the churches should be less. But the churches should be homes, where the hospitable spirit of helpful love reigns. The church should not control the State, or run political parties or legislatures, or organize fraternities, or clubs, or labor leagues, or compete with them, but put the Christ spirit into the life of men who do go into these works.

spirit into the life of men who do go into these works.

If the church would furnish the spirit of a healthful brotherhood to organized labor and capital, to the leaders of all reforms, it would solve many of the vexed questions that now confront us. The church should be the dynamo that furnishes the social, intellectual, moral and spiritual power of the world. To reduce to a minimum the miseries and vices of the world, and enlarge and strengthen and increase the life of the least and the greatest of each and all, is the office of the church whose founder said, "I came that they might have life, and have it in abundance."

Y.W.C.A. GOSPEL MEETING.

Y.W.C.A. GOSPEIL MEDITING.

The Bible class at 3 p.m. in the Blanchard-Fitzgerald Hall was well attended, and interest is increasing each Sunday. Led by Miss Morse this class affords an excellent opportunity for busy young women whose time is much occupied during the week.

The gospel-meeting at 3:45 was led by Miss Bonnie Warren of the First Congregational Church. The Misses Lewis of the Grace Methodist Episcopal Church assisted at the plano, and with violin. Miss Lizzie Oliver sang a solo with much sweetness and exposssion. Y.W.C.A. GOSPET, MERCENCE copal Church assisted at the piano, and with violin. Miss Lizzie Oliver sang a solo with much sweetness and expression.

Miss Warren read from the first chapter of St. John, and, after prayer, spoke most earnestly to the young women assembled on the subject of "Personal Individual Work for Christ." Miss Warren said this subject is in my heart today, and I can speak of nothing else. When the kingdoms of this earth become the kingdom of Christ it will be because of the personal work of His followers. It was Christ's way to reach people by touching them and by direct personal contact with them. In no other way could He make them know that He understood the needs of poor human nature. We must not be discouraged if only one came at a time. The world did not know God before Christ came as we know Him now. It required the warm, graclous, loving life of Christ to make God a reality to us.

loving life of Christ to make God a reality to us.

Miss Warren spoke of the great responsibility that rested on Christians to speak to the men and women whom we jostle in every-day life, of God and His service. To hold out helping hands to those who despair, because the light has not broken upon them yet.

"They that turn many to righteousness shall shine as the stars."

Miss Morse spoke, saying that Christ was known to the world through His disciples. Great, therefore, was the necessity for us to live Christ in our every-day life. She closed with prayer. The meeting ended with the Christian Endeavor benediction.

The classes at the Y.W.C.A. will go on as usual this week. Monday, at 5 o'clock, will be opened a new physiculture class.

condemnation. We acknowledge the power of the human hand to murder, but we do not perceive the power of the tongue to damage reputation and character. A man may be stabbed to death with a pen. Happiness, peace and joy have been undermined by gossips.

In the arsenal at Venice there is still preserved a small golden key, which bears the name of "The key of still preserved a small golden key of death." It ds an instrument inverted in the fitteenth century by an Algerian named Telbaldo. It hung at his girdle, and, while toying with it carelessly, he would turn the handle, when a needle of exquisite fineness shot from it. which would bury itself unfelt in the flesh of the person whom he hated sufficient to kill. The needle was tipped with deadly poison, and, sooner or later, did fits fatal work. The average gossiper of the day carries such a deadly needle in the tongue.

In India a slanderous mouth is sewed up. If that was practiced in America, what a stilness there would be in some neighborhoods. Among some animals, if one of their number is wounded and falls he is at once torn to pieces by his fellows. Traces of these animals are fewer.

ds wounded and falls he is at once torn to pieces by his fellows. Traces of these animals are found in men, and women today. Men gossip more than women. Political perfidy has its nerve center in gossip. Some little country newspaper starts a rumor and ft rolls on and on, gathering the force of an avalanche.

center in gossip. Some little country newspaper starts a rumor and it rolls on and on, gathering the force of an avalamche.

People who are given to gossip have no clear conception of the great evil they do. Some un not care, if they do know, of the damage, but glory in the shame.

The story goes that a woman who freely used her tongue to scandalize others, and made confession to the priest, was told to go out in various directions and scatter the seeds of thistles, one by one. Wondering at the mild penance, she obeyed, and returning, told her confessor. To her amazement, he told her to go out and gather the scattered seeds, and, when she objected that it would be impossible to gather up the seeds, he cautioned her that slander had a like effect. It was impossible to undo the misohief. When you are about to retail slander in confidence, remember the old proverb that "Thy friend hath a friend, therefore, be discreet." Keep your own secrets. Gossip grows as it goes. First it is reported that Smith "bought" his goods from Brown, then it goes that he "got" his goods from Brown, then he "took," and finally "stole." All are familiar with the gossip regarding the "Three Black Crows,"

Do not hear gossip unless it is thrust upon you, and then if possible change the subject. "The retailer and hearer of gossip should be hung—the one by the tongue and the other by the ears." Physical deafness may be a bane, but a moral deafness to shortcomings of our neighbors is a blessing. Hear as little as possible for your own happiness. Never drink in the spirit of the tale-bearer. Extract the serpent's teeth if you can. Remember that if the other side were heard a very different account would be given of the matter. Cultivate charity, Alexander had an ugly scar on his forehead. When the artist painted his portrait he sketched him with him leaning on his elbow and his hand defity covering the scar. Let us put the finger of charity over the scar of our neighbor. "Charity covereth a multitude of sins." The best remedy for gossip is a n

He gave a most convincing address upon the subject, replete with illustrations, with stirring effect.

Where the larks were in the loam-Sang the song of love and home. With a rainy incense sweet, Soft the clouds fell at his feet. And with sudden curve and sweep Broke upon a dead man's sleep. Dust—a handful, gray and dim-All that war had left of him! Yet, bright in the spot where beat His brave heart in battle's heat, Lay a lock of golden hair Like a gleam of glory there! THE STRIKE RECORD

Spread of the Great Northern's Row.

A Peculiar State of Affairs is Connected Therewith.

Brotherhood Officials are Oppose to the Movement.

The Company Supported by the Leaders The Coast Lines are Tied Up-The Canadian Pacific Precautions.

ST. PAUL, April 15.-The strike or the Great Northern Railway is grad-ually working east, having taken in Grand Forks, N.D., at midnight last night, and if not soon settled will probably reach this end of the line in about two or three days. It is developing a peculiar state of affairs.

The strike was ordered by the American Railway Union and is being more actively antagonized by the railroad employees' brotherhoods than by the railway company itself. There can be no doubt that the individuals of the various brotherhoods are privately somewhat dissatisfied, but they recently accepted the revised schedules and are standing by their agreement with the company. A meeting this evening of the local organization of engineers, looking to a strike, was held, but at the close of the meeting the secretary told an Associated Press secretary told an Associated Press reported they were opposed to the strike and any engineer who countenanced it or in any way assisted the strikers will do so at his peril.

The following, addressed to the president of the Great Northern Railway, has been received here:

If the firemen in your employ, who are members of the brotherhood, have quit work in the present strike they have violated the laws of the organization and will be expelled. They will have no support from the organization or be supported by the Federated Committee. We propose to stand by all agreements that have been made and signed by authorized committees. You are at liberty to act accordingly. (Signed)

The following is a copy of a message sent by E. E. Clarke, grand ehief of the railway conductors, to the local secretary at Spokane, with directions to make such use of it as he chose.

ENGLISH LUTHERAN CHURCH.
The Rev. M. H. Stine preached Sunday morning upon the text, "The love of God constraineth us." In the sermon he gave an interesting outline of the proceedings of the "Coast Synod," held at San Diego last week.

In the evening Mrs. Meyers, president of the Coast Board of Home Missions, gave an instructive address upon the work of that organization. She also spoke enthusiastically of the synodical convention.

Rev. S. B. Barnitz, D.D., will lecture on the subject, "Twenty Years' Experience in Home Missionary Work," Tursday evening, April 17, in the auditorium of the church. This lecture was delivered here several years ago, and is highly recommended, not only by the press, but by those who heard it.

Great Northern Railroad strike is extended over the Cascade division and the Coast lines and the whole system is tied up from Minot to Seattle and from Seattle to New Westminster. Hardly a wheel is turning, nor a telegraph key ticking for over 2000 miles of the line. The strike was ordered with such secrecy and suddenness that an hour before it was to begin, the officials had no suspicion that it was to happen. The order was received in this city about 7 o'clock last night, but no intimation of it was allowed to get beyond the men interested.

When the time came to make up the east-bound passenger train, the mail and baggage car was set in front instead of at the rear and the car was not coupled to the rest of the train. When orders were given for the train to go out, the engineer refused to take out more than the mail car. Superintendent Copeland said that the whole train or nothing would go out, and, after waiting for nearly an hour to give him an opportunity to reconsider, the crew went home and the officials followed suit. The strike is complete on the west and all branches of the divisions are participating.

THE DOG SHOW.

Local sporting men will devote their attention during the coming week to the dog show, which will be the largest one ever held in this city. Since the ifficulty over securing suitable judges for the exhibition has been overcome the San Francisco breeders have come forward in support of the show with a engthy list of entries, and the prospects now are that no further disagreement will arise to interfere with the success of the exhibition of high-pred canines. The show opens Wedneslay, at Music Hall, and will continue until the close of the week.

It will be given on the same basis as that shown in the Knickerbocker City, and, from present indications, it will be "the" society event of the year. The president is Henry J. Crocker, and, with Mr. Irwin as an assistant, nothing is being left undone to make it a great success. Harnesses and carriages of the latest styles will be brought from the East, and everything, from the lightest buggy to four-in-hand coaches, will be seen. Exhibitions of jumping and fancy riding will be given. Trotting horses, the most famous in California, sires, brood mares and campaigners will appear, for it will be after the circuit ends. Valuable prizes will be offered for the best, and an enthusiasm will be aroused that must be productive of much good to this great and growing industry.

to the Sphinx.
Upon and around the white paces of the World's Fair there were scores of the most impressive and inspiring statues of modern times. Those colossal figures which dominated the busy scene bore expressions of calmness, repose and power, and seemed like beneficent genii watching over the treasures of nations to defend and to bless. To the immense vistas and prolonged sky lines of the exposition they gave a kind of fantastic life, because there was such vigor in their modeling, such force in their design that they seemed to be always on the point of motion.

The tourist through Italy will tell the state of the point of the poi sand statues on MILAN CATHEDRAL.

And some of them are the work of the illustrious Canova. European travelers are familiar with the enormous stone apostles on the front of St. Peter's, the muscular statues by Michael Angelo at Florence, the great goddesses of the French cities in the Place de la Concorde. But it is safe to say that none of these famous simulacra has exercised a more potent influence than the majestic symbolical statues of the World's Fair, which may perhaps have been defective in some of the fine minutiae of art, but yet on the whole possessed the grand quality of effectiveness. Millions of people gazed upon them who had hever before seen a statue and were amazed at their silent language, their revelation of mystic power. On the one side stood these huge memorials in the serious and sacred spirit of Greek art, each setting forth its earnest lesson in simple symbolism. On the other side stood the TUFT-WHISKERED GRANGER. are familiar with the enormous stone

TUFT-WHISKERED GRANGER. from the prairies of the Osage, the rugged lumberman from the pineries of rugged lumberman from the pineries of Wisconsin, the shambling mountaineer of the Allegheny wilds, and the unjettered planter from the Mississippi canebrakes. It is alleged that Ralph Waldo Emerson once seated himself before the great sphinx in Egypt and after contemplating that mysterious figure for hours hurled at it these pregnant words: "You're another," and turned away. It would be of the profoundest interest to know, in many cases, what these quaint American provincials and these vast Hellenic statues may have said to each other in the silent language of the soul.

An eminent philosopher has remarked concerning the theologies of the ancient world: "The granite statues have outlived the gods." Isis and Sesostris, Zeus and Minerva, Venus and Neptune have become mere broken dreams, but their magnificent temples and memorials line every shore of the Medierranean Sea. The tenure of the exposition statues has already ceased and their lessons have been taught; therefore they are passing away.

It is interesting to recall how these works of art were made and to see how simple were the means used to produce such great effects. The only implements were a dishpan and a hatchet; the materials, laths and plaster. Let us take for instance, the statue of the Angel of Peace, thrice as high as a man, and yet in appearance as graceful, airy, and lissome as a Young Vassar Girll.

Her rounded legs are made of 2x4

Her rounded legs are made of 2x4 scantling; her spine of an iron rod; her scantling; her spine of an iron rod; her bosom and head of laths, and her wings of steel netting. This is merely the anatomy of the fair goddess. Her flesh and blood is made up of plaster and hemp fiber mixed up in a dishpan and heaped upon and around the scantling legs and lath bosom. When this is done and an unsightly and shapeless mass stands upon the platform, a black-whiskered son of Italy, with a pipe in his mouth and a bottle of beer in his pocket, attacks the plastery chaos with a hatchet and shortly the symmetrical curves, the lines of expression, the features of grand idealism begin to appear and a new goddess has come to bless the earth.

new goddess has come to bless the earth.

Hundreds of such odd transformations went to make up the fair and very little is yet known of their intensely fascinating details. What astonishment will seize the people when they read about them in the new "Book of the Builders," now being published under the direction of Director of Works Burnham and Art Director Millet! The men who are united in writing and illustrating this wonderful work are the same men who conceived and built up the fair in all its multitudinous and singular details. It may be well assumed that they have something new to say and that their words will be of prodigious value. The Standard Edition is so costly as to be out of the reach of most people, since it sells for $1000 a copy. But The Times has been happy in securing for its patrons the preparation of a rich popular edition of the

There are many other surprises to be found in the "Book of the Builders," until those of us who fancied we knew the fair thoroughly find ever new interpretations and narratives, now obviously true, but not before imagined.

The Smooth Attorney to Be Compelled to Contribute Toward His Wife's Support-His Plea of Poverty Too Weak appearance, by affidavit, and now the court has ordered the disreputable attorney to pungle up a liberal alimony and counsel fees, much to his disgust.

The following relative to the case is from the San Francisco Chronicle of Saturday:

George Hayford, the Oakland attorney, is learning by experience some of the pains and penalties incident to divorce litigation. Several months have now elapsed since Hayford brought suit in this city for a divorce from his wife, Tillie, on the ground of desertion. The first he heard from the defendant after that was when she appeared in court by her attorneys and presented a demand for alimony and counsel fees. Mrs. Hayford being in Los Angeles, and entirely without means, presented her story through an affidavit.

Hayford, it appears, was formerly an afform the development of having deserted his family there, and of leaving them in destitute circumstances. Papers in the case show that Hayford filed a suit for divorce in the southern city last July. As soon, however, as Mrs. Hayford presented a motion for alimony, he abandoned his wife, and, it is alleged, fled to this city.

When confronted with a demand for alimony in the suit here, Hayford promptly came forward with a plea of poverty. To this plea his wife made a spirited response, when her motion for alimony came to a hearing before Judge Murphy, yesterday. She then related how, since, his advent here, Hayford had frequently boasted of his lucrative practice, and the amount of money he was making. It was also alleged that, for services rendered for the defendant in the suit of the people against Bentley at Los Angelés, Hayford received $10,000. This sum he is said to have deposited in bank in the name of the typewriter designated in the wife's affidavit as an unmarried woman, named Abbie N. Michaels, Mrs. Hayford admits that she demanded of her husband that he dispense with the services of Miss Michaels, for reasons which, the wife says, she will be more fully able to explain in her deposition. It was further represented th she will be more fully able to explain in her deposition. It was further represented that the attorney spent large sums of money on persons other than his wife, so that there was no good reason why he should not be made to support his family. As evidence that she did not desert her husband, Mrs. Hayford referred to the receipt of a letter from Hayford, in which he stated that he would never live with her again.

On this showing, Judge Murphy, much to Hayford's chagrin, made an order, directing the payment of $100 counsel fees and of $35 a month alimony, pending the trial and determination of the suit.

Found Dead in His Room

Found Dead in His Room.

Fildo Deronda, an aged Mexican, residing at Boyle Heights, about four blocks beyond the cable power-house, was found dead in his room yesterday morning. The old man, on account of his age, 84 years, and a protracted illness, had been weak for some time past, and it is supposed that early yesterday morning he either rolled out or attempted to get out of bed, and fell down, for when one of his children entered the room before breakfast he was found lying on the floor, near the bed, in a pool of blood, death being undoubtedly due to a hemorrhage. Cororner Cates was notified of the affair, and, under his directions, the body was removed to Garret & Chase's undertaking establishment, where an inquest will be held this morning.

What He Says About His Connection With Catholic Church—His Early Train-ing and Experience in the

A large audience was present at Illinois Hall at the lecture on "Why I Left the Roman Catholic Priesthood, and What I Saw Therein," delivered yesterday afternoon by ex-Priest Joseph Slattery of Boston. Good order prevailed. There were, however, officers in attendance.

In the beginning the speaker said there might be some among those present whose Roman Catholic views might not agree with his remarks. If so he taked that they should not permit their Roman powder to be exploded by a little Protestant fire. He had hired the hall and proposed to use it. If they desired to use powder to be exploded by a little Protestant fire. He had hired the hall and proposed to use it. If they desired to use the hall for the expression of views contrary to what is taught by him then they would probably have a chance to hire the hall for that purpose at a later date. Proceeding with his remarks he said he was born in Ireland and that when he was 12 years of age he was selected as the member of the family to be educated for the Roman Catholic priesthood.

Speaking of the teachings of that religion he said the so-termed moral theology should be called immoral theology. Candidates for the priesthood are obliged to study the various kinds of sin quite fully. The matter of marriage they are required to study to its fullest details—and that in the face of the fact they are made to do so in order that they may be prepared for the confessional. The books from which they acquire this information are printed in Latin and no man here would dare to 'eave them translated into English. If he did he would be arrested for peddling obscene literature.

The Roman Catholic people, he said, is authorities do the thinking and conuct the business.

The speaker went on to tell of how he as trained for the priesthood and of he first parish to which he was assigned.

Is health falling he was transferred to parish where his duties would not be so eavy. He was told that the priest uner whom he was to work was very much a crank—as old bachelors such as riests are likely to be—and while on the ayt o his new post of duty he rode in he same car compartment with any of eavy the word of the stranger about where e was going and also told how he exected to have a very cranky priest uner whom to work. His surprise could a imagined when at the end of the jourey he found that the very man with hom he was talking was the one of hom he had said such uncomplimentary lings.

The new parish had within it a con-

The new parish had within it a convent of the "Inclosed Order of Carmelltes." On his first, visit to the convent he knocked at the door which was promptly opened. He looked, expecting to see the one who had opened it, but saw nobody. After a time he heard some one calling "Father." and, looking to the end of the hallway he saw some one speaking to him through a small iron grating in the door. He was asked to step into the reception-room at the side of the hall, and did so.

He was much surprised to see on the side of the room a large grating of iron bars nearly an inch thick and running in both directions close together. Just beyond the iron grating was a screen of perforated zinc and through that the mother superior talked to him. He was in a darkened recess. She could, therefore, see him, but he could not see her.

There were thirteen nuns in the convent and he as priest was the only man who was allowed to see them. The parents who permit a daughter to once enter that kind of a convent can never have the privilege of seeing her again in this life. They cannot even so much as close her eyes in death.

That same order, the speak-r said, is also established in America. It should

The speaker exhibited wafers, such as are used in communion or for sacramental purposes. One of the wafers was about one inch in diameter and the there was about three inches. The smaller is for the periest. The wafer, after the priest has gaid scertain five words over it, is, according to Catholic belief, changed so that it becomes a part of the body of the priest and also of Christ.

The priest eats the wafer and drinks the wine but gives the people the water only. The wafer is required to be of wheat flour and so if the dealers in wheat can withdraw from the market the supply of that commodity they may succeed in destroying the whole Catholic church. The wine used must be of the juice of good grapes, else when the priest says the words over it, it will not turn to the blood of Christ and the sacrament at which it is used or the mass that is said after it becomes void.

The speaker related how a man who for a number of years had been a wine merchant was educated for the Roman Catholic priesthood. After having been properly installed he presided at mass and observed the wine furnished was of a peculiar make. He spoke to the bishop about it and told the bishop there was not one particle of grape juice used in its manufacture.

It appeared the bishop had been ap-The speaker exhibited wafers, such as bishop thought it a good trade and made the bargain.

Finding the wine was not of the proper material the bishop had to order each of his priests to use proper wine and with it say over all the masses they had said while using the bad wine.

The speaker went on to explain that, according to the Catholic faith, when an infant is baptized by a priest if the priest has not at the time the proper latent then the baptism was of newfect. He (Slattery) was, according to the Somether's testimony, baptized by a priest when he was but two days cld. If the priest had not the right intent then he (Slattery) could, according to the Catholic belief, never be saved.

The speaker went on to tell in high terms of the American Protective Association and what it is destined to accomplish.

Turning his attention to the press he said the majority of the papers are under the thumb of Catholicism. If a priest "paints the town red" the papers have little or nothing to say about it, but if a Protestant minister happens to do anything of that sort it is wired all over the country. The public should insist that the papers give the news as it is—nothing more and nothing less.

PASADENA.

Not a Full-fledged Annual Show of Some Kind, t Will Happen During the Coming Week-People on the Go-Local News and Personal Mention Briefly Summed Up.

PASADENA, April 15.—(Special Correspondence.) Pasadena has her Tournament of Roses and her Pageant of Roses and Santa Barbara has her Floral Festiand santa Barbara has her Floral Festival. It is only fair to state that the Santa Barbara festival easily outrivals the local attractions named on account of its longer duration and the greater prominence given it by advertising, etc., all of which leads up to an expression of regret over Pasadena's lack of enterprise in this respect. At any month in the winter season thousands of Eastern tourists may be found in Southern California, and the town that arranges the biggest and the most characteristic show and makes of it an annual affair will be the town that will attract most foreign attention. By judicious advertising Santa Barbara's Flower Festival is known of the world over. Within a few years the Los Angeles Fiesta will become more famous than the New Orleans Mardi-Gras. It is to be regretted that Pasadena cannot likewise attain special prominence by reason of some strictly local attraction. Certainly the surroundings are not lacking in possibilities.

THE COMING WEEK.

The present week will be an interesting one in local affairs. It will witness the frauguration and organization of a new City Council, a performance by Modjeska at the Operahouse, and the Pageant of Roses, which will certainly be the most beautiful spectacular performance ever presented here. Work will be begun on the new Los Angeles-Pasadena electric road on Fair Oaks avenue, while on Raymond avenue the foundation walls will be begun on the new Vandevoort Block. A rainstorm and a complete surrender of the local Democracy to the Republicans may be mentioned also as possibilities of the Week.

PASADENA BREVITIES.

PASADENA BREVITIES.

Monday or Tuesday will witness the first active operations looking to the construction of an electric road between Pasadena and Los Angeles and said operations will be located on Fair Oaks avenue. The Los Angeles Council will, in all probability, Monday, adopt an ordinance awarding the franchise to the consolidated company for an electric road up Pasadena avenue to the east limits of that city.

A good story is told on a prominent Passadenian, who became enamored Saturday evening of a well-proportioned lady in Los Angeles, whose features were concalled behind a mask. After several hours devotion and the expenditure of considerable cash on the object of his affections, the mask was removed and the lady was found to have but one eye.

A series of tableaux, to be followed by a hop, will be given Tuesday evening at the hall in Alhambra for the benefit of the Episcopal Church of San Gabriel. The entertainment is being arranged by several young ladies, who are prominent in local social circles, and will undoubtedly attract many Passadenians.

Immediately after school Monday afternoon the members of the Brodea march in the Pageant of Rosses will rehearse at williams's Hall. The yellow butterflies are expected to rehearse at 1 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon at the ciperahouse with the members of the duch ss dance.

One of the Best Lectures Ever Heard in Santa Ana - The Result of Last Week's High School Election.

SANTA ANA. April 15.—(Special Correspondence.) David Starr Jordan, of the Leland Stanford University, delivered one of the best lectures ever heard in Santa Ana Saturday evening, in Spurgeon's Hall. The subject of his lecture was "Expolution—Its Probable Influence on Thought During the Next Half Century."

The speaker warmed up to his subject in a very short time, taking it up first as science—the science of change—changing by certain fixed natural laws. Then he spoke of evolution as a theory, showing that all living forms are moving on, changing and interchanging; and from this is derived the theory that all these things sprang from a few stalks.

Evolution, as a method of study, was also touched upon, showing that it was not really what it was, but the way we look at it; the way we understand it. Method is a study of the law by which evolution is brought about.

Then evolution, as a philosophy, making plain the fact that as a philosophy it is mostly false. He showed that, in a general way, it leads to the truth, but specifially or particularly it is false; that the philosophy of evolution can be written over when new facts are known. In more particularly defining this branch of his subject the speaker was pleased to say that the philosophy of evolution is the changing perspective with which we view the conditions of life.

Having spoken generally of what evolution was not that man is a descendant of the monkey. True, they look alike and sometimes act alike, and he was of the opinion that both man and monkey sprang from one common ancestor. He thought, however, that the monkey had just as much right to claim that he sprang from man, as man had to claim that he sprang from man, as man had to claim that he sprang from man, as man had to claim that he sprang from life—from living organisms.

At his juncture he took up the law of heredity, upon which he dwelt at some length. Then came the law of individuality and the great process of natural selection—the survival of the fittest in animal and vegetable life. Then

RESULT OF THE ELECTION.

The residents of Santa Ana are to be congratulated upon the very decided manner in which they placed themselves upon the side of education and progress in Saturday's election to maintain the city's present efficient High School by placing it upon a legal basis, in accordance with an act passed by the last Legislature. The vote was almost ten to one in favor of maintaining the school, and if a little more time had been at hand, so that the voters could have been thoroughly informed as to the true status, of affairs, there would probably not have been a half dozen votes against it. Santa Ana is progressive—at least when it comes to maiters of education. It has now the best-acknowledged High School in Southern California, and its public schools are equal to the best in any other portion of the State. The High School will remain A PETITION TO GOV. The Gold Mining Fever at Redlands—Ontario Notes.

REDLANDS, April 15.—(Special Correspondence.) Quite a number of the citizens here have got the gold-mining fever. About three months ago R. W. McIntire and two other Redlands men started on a prospecting tour, going up into Inyo county. Very, little had been heard from the parties until last Friday night, when Mr. McIntire returned, bringing with him some valuable quartz from a mine they had located. The mine in question they claim is the richest in Southern California, and it is reported that already they have refused an offer of $10.000 for a half interest in the property. The mine is not for sale, however, at any reasonable figure, for the owners have arranged to erect a stamp mill on the property, and it will not be long before they will be crushing ore on their own account. A piece of sample scarcely as large as a hen's egg exhibited by Mr. McIntire was estimated to contain $3 worth of gold. In all the parties filed on four claims. The property is situated twenty miles north of the San Bernardino county line, and about twenty miles west of Death Valley.

ONTARIO, April 15.—(Special Correspondence.) Last summer the school trustees of Ontario district called an election on the proposition to vote a special tax of $2000. Little interest was taken trustees of Ontario district called an election on the proposition to vote a special tax of $2000. Little interest was taken in the matter, as most of the voters thought it would go all right any way. A few opposers of the tax were active, and the result was a very small vote and the defeat of the tax. The trustees used the regular appropriation as far as it would go and at the end of six months closed all the schools. This was a startling sort of eye-opener to the people, and after three weeks' vacation they took a lively interest in a second election for a special tax which was called for Saturday. The vote stood, for the tax, 139; against, 19. This was by no means a full vote, but it was decidedly on the right side. At the same time the trustees submitted the proposition to vote bonds for $14,000. Of this amount $8500 will be used to refund bonds soon maturing, and $5500 will be spent in enlarging the Central and North Ontario school buildings. The vote on this was 164 yeas and 14 nays, more than ten to one. The bonds are to bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. This will be the first attempt to float a 6 per cent. School bond in Southern California since the hard times came on. It is believed that they can be placed at par. One Los Angeles party offered to take them at par, with a $64, per cent. Tate, and the trustees risked cutting the interest down to even 6 per cent.

It is now just a trifle over ten years since the first school was opened in Ontario with a total enrollment of fourteen pupils. The loft of a expenter shop was used for as schoolroom. When the improvements which these bonds will make possible are completed we shall have five school buildings, thirteen rooms, and a total enrollment of over $50. The school census this year is expected to show at teleast $600 children of school age.

With the lectures of Mrs. C. Holbrook Smith, the "Glee Club," the "Fruit and Flower Mission" girls, the marriage at the Christian Church, the hop by the boys of Co. D. Strong's Orchestra furnishing the music, and then all the regular church engagements of the week, surely all Pomonans can find something that will be rather pleasant than jarring to his or her individual liking from this list, to which it is more than probable many others might be added.

Passengers actually stared in amazement when they saw so many Pomonans alighting from the local train on arrival at this depot from Los Angeles Friday evening. They dropped off not by scores, but by hundreds—more going down on that than any other one day, besides many returning who had gone down previously.

Orchardists Already Irrigating—News and Personal Notes.

VENTURA, April 15.—(Special Correspondence.) A number of orchardists here have begun irrigating their fruit trees. Many affect to believe that there will be large crops of fruit, even though this is neglected. It is, however, the part of wisdom to supply the lack of natural rainfall where practicable. In that case it is probable fruit buds for next year's crop will be perfected, which otherwise might not be.

Interesting Weather 'Statistics—The Brown Liquor Case.

RIVERSIDE, Apt*il 15.—(Special Correspondence.) Whenever there is an extremely dry or wet season people are always interested in weather statistics. A record of the rainfall for the past thirteen years, which has been correctly kept by Supervisor White, shows that the rainfall in Riverside is subject to great fluctuations. The figures show that the fall varied in the period named all the way from 3.95 inches for a season to 25.32 inches for a similar length of time. In 1881 the rainfall was the lowest for the period of thirteen years, when the fall only amounted to 3.95, and in 1884 the heaviest fall was recorded. The fall this season to date has been 8.29 inches. This is, in fact, a much greater rainfall than

Rather Unusual April Weather—Personals and Brevities.

POMONA, April 15.—(Special Correspondence) This has been rather a cold and dismal-looking day for mid-April weather—Somewhat of a check upon the tendency toward coast points on Sundays, which the few warm days within the past month had begun to manifest in the average beach-going Pomonan.

Flesta week has gone, and with it the best wishes of thousands for its gay but successful return one year hence. The draw was a "day of rest." for, to judge from Pomona's calm, quiet and peaceful appearance throughout this seventh day of the week, even the churches have been attended by fewer numbers than usual. The only thing that perhaps, has shown no change is the regular Sunday afternoon procession and street service of the People vis. A. H. Smail Female Feet.

(Exchange) The craze for small feet is not nearly so pronounced as it used to be, and ladies do not feel disgraced when they are compelled to wear a large 3 or small 4. For years efforts have been made by artists and doctors to inculcate a taste for larger feet and to a great extent they have been successful. The granitoid sidewalk, however, has done more missionary work in this drection than all the talking and writing. While one walks on the grass, it is pretty easy to keep the foot small and comfortable, but a few hours' tramp daily on granitoid or granite makes a very small foot impossible, and a very small shoe exceedingly uncomfortable. By careful measurement, however, it is possible to make a shoe which looks a size smaller than it really is and this is an art the secret of which is not obtained in a few days or even years.

BUSINESS SITUATION.

BUSINESS SITUATION.

Dun's Review Says the Improvement Continues.

Dun's review of business and finance for the week ending April 7 says:

Improvement in business has continued since the President's veto, which has been sustained in the House. But the best news of the week is the great decrease in number and importance of failures, of which full returns are given for the first time by months in the quarterly statement on following pages. The number was 2090 in January, 1202 in February, and 1005 in March. The commercial ilabilities were $31,320,867 in January, 317,390,419 in February, and $14,730,889 in March. Nearly half the commercial liabilities were of firms failing during the first month; much more than half of the trading liabilities, and 49 per cent. of the other commercial liabilities, and 49 per cent. of the other commercial liabilities, and 49 per cent. of the other commercial liabilities, and 49 per cent. of the other commercial liabilities, and 49 per cent. of the other commercial liabilities, and 49 per cent. of the other commercial liabilities, and 49 per cent. of the other commercial liabilities were of failures in the first month and over half of the rairoad liabilities. Though the number of commercial failures, 427 in the United States, was never equaled in any quarter until the third of last year, the average of liabilities is only $14,890, which is lower than has appeared in the records of thirty-eight years at any time closely preceding any serious reverse. The degree of commercial soundness and health thereby indicated gives ground for hope that the liquidations consequent upon the disaster of 1893 have been in large measure accomplished.

The signs of continued improvement are more distinct than in the previous week, and are found elsewhere rather than in speculative markets. There is more buying for consumption, with more numerous demands for immediate replacement of stocks, which does not yet stimulate an advance in prices, because consumption as yet by no means suffices to employ all th thus far, and internal receipts 7 per cent.
less. There has been quite a flurry in the silver market, New York speculators having made game of the London market and the smelters also, but nothing appears to warrant a substantial advance.
The usual quarterly payments, which vary with the condition of business less than settlements on current account, swelled exchanges for the first week of April so that the decrease compared with last year was at all points 19.5 per cent, at New York 21.2 per cent., and outside this city 16.7 per cent. Whether this is the beginning of lasting improvement it is too early to determine. But there is no decided—gain in railroad earnings, which decreased 14st per cent, for the first week in April against 12 per cent. in March. The failures for the past week have been 249 in the United States against 195 last year, and 26 in Canada against 28 last year.

FORGED A CHECK.

The Oueer Action of a Drunken Man Yester day Afternoon.

About 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon a well-dressed man about 35 years of age, considerably under the influence of a flesta "jag," reeled up to the ticket window at the Terminal depot ence of a fiesta "jag," reeled up to the ticket window at the Terminal depot and asked the agent there to fill out a check for him to the amount of $15. Seeing that the fellow was intoxicated the agent promptly refused to do so, whereupon the reveller demanded pen and ink and proceeded to fill one out for himself. As he signed the name of R. H. Howell, of the well-known firm of Howell & Craig, to the check, the agent, who knew that gentleman, became suspicious and notified Detective Insley of the circumstance. That officer promptly sent one of his men down to the depot to investigate the matter, but the inebriate stranger recognized the detective as soon as he arrived and destroyed the check. George Insley then interviewed the stranger himself, and as the latter acknowledged having filled out the check and remarked that he did so because he "would just as soon go to the pen as not," but that after thinking the matter over he concluded he would not go just yet and destroyed it. He was placed under arrest. On being taken to the police station he refused to give his name, but subsequently said it was Thurman. Pending investigation he was locked up on the charge of drunkenness. From a remark he made when informed of the charge against him it is believed that he is "wanted" upon a much more serious one; but drunk as he was he still had sense nim it is believed that he is wanted upon a much more serious one; but drunk as he was he still had sense enough to be so reticent regarding himself as to leave the officers completely in the dark.

ANOTHER CASE. After locking his man up Detective Insley made an investigation and soon discovered another case, which will probably land the young man behind the bars. Friday night he spent at a French lodging-house and Saturday morning drew a check for $25, signing Mr. Howell's name, which the proprietor cashed, giving Thurman $24. With this evidence in his possession Insley again called on the young man, when he made a full confession. He said that his father was one of the most influential men in Louisiana and that he was formerly a business partner of Mr. Howell, the man whose name he forged. Thurman said that he had met Mr. Howell in this city and that gentleman had befriended him on several occasions, but that he would not ask him to do so any further, and, needing money, had forged his name. Thurman is a well-educated man, a fine penman and of agreeable manners. He says that his downfall was caused by the morphine and cocaine habits, he having been a slave to those drugs for years.

The police will continue the investigation today, as it is probable that there are other cases in which Thur-After locking his man up Detective
